Plywood Economical In Many Farm Uses

Brooder Houses Prove Utility of Material

Farmers are finding that the high strength and light weight of plywood makes it an economical and efficient material to use in portable farm buildings such as brooder houses, hog shelters, and range sheds.

A brooder house, a building magazine reports, should be of adequate size, warm and dry, and properly lighted and ventilated. To be economical, it should be relatively low in first cost, and yet be strongly built to give long life without expensive and troublesome upkeep. For convenience, it must be easy to clean and move.

Here is a "turkey feeder" that is easily and economically made from exterior plywood—weather can't harm it and it's easy portability appeals to farmers.

Portability, of course, is of prime importance. Some portable buildings, built by conventional methods, weigh as much as 2 to 3 thousand pounds. Farmers naturally hesitate to move a heavy structure frequently, and so invite exposure to disease. It moved often, particularly over rough ground, heavy buildings soon are loosened at the joints.

Uncle Sam Says

Graduation days are over and the hopes of those leaving school for the last time are flying high. There is one bit of advice your Uncle Sam wants you graduates to remember, and that is—"the only money you'll ever have is the money you are saving right now. Saving part of each pay-check is the ONLY way to save." And one of the best ways to do it is to buy U. S. Savings Bonds through your company's Payroll Savings Plan. Those Bonds are backed by the full resources of the Government and will return you $4 for every $3 ten years later.

Impressive services were held the Galilee Baptist Church Sunday morning. One new member was added to the church. The right hand of fellowship was extended by the pastor and followed by the deacons and officers. The church choir under the direction of Miss Gertrude rendered special music.

Mary Lewis, of Springfield Church assisted in lifting the ground breaking, which was very good.

The annual revival will begin at Mount Olivet Baptist Church next Sunday. The Rev. R. G. Lawson will be the guest minister during the week. The Promise Land Church will render music at the 3 P. M. service.

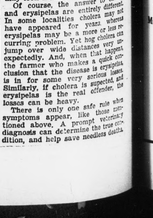
Baptizing services will be held in the Price's Lake immediately following the morning service at the First Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Stokes and Mrs. Betty Flood and daughter, Bonnie Lou, of Baltimore spent a few days here during the week.

Miss Helen Stephens, of Baltimore will spend a few weeks with her parents.

Miss Bessie Williams left Wednesday for Hampton Institute, to study this year.

Miss Utah



Joanne Hinand, a 19-year-old Brigham Young University sophomore, will compete for the Miss America 1951 crown at Atlantic City, N. J., early in September. Joanne is studying voice, dramatics and modeling.

ERYSIPELAS TAKES ON VARIED FORMS

Many hog owners of farms are ruined because owners delay in finding out just what is wrong with their hogs.

For example, two or three lame pigs in a drove or a few with big leg joints, curling ears or bob tails may not seem all serious. But more often than not, these simple symptoms may be the outward signs of a herd infection caused by germ-borne swine erysipelas—and a sudden flare with serious losses may follow.

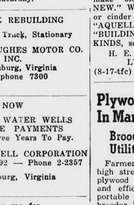
Swine erysipelas, perhaps more often than almost any other feared disease, may appear in a variety of so-called "atypical" form. It can kill a pig without the animal having appeared sick. Or, it may cause an affected hog to linger on for months without normal gain or growth and the disease is further confusing because some outbreaks of erysipelas may look much like true hog cholera.

Of course, the answer to cholera and erysipelas are entirely different. In some localities cholera may not have appeared for years, where erysipelas may be a more or less recurring problem. Yet hog cholera can jump over wide distances very unexpectedly. And, when that happens, the farmer who makes a quick diagnosis that the disease is erysipelas is in for some very serious losses. Similarly, if cholera is suspected, and erysipelas is the real affection, the losses can be heavy.

There is only one safe rule when symptoms appear, like those mentioned above. A prompt veterinary diagnosis can determine the true condition, and help save needless dangers

Uncle Sam Says



Farming today requires great skill on the part of the farmer. Not only must he know soils, fertilizers, and seeds, but he must be an expert mechanic to operate all types of farm machinery. In other words, a farmer works hard for his money and in a highly speculative business, he should make that money work for him—in a non-speculative and safe investment, U. S. Savings Bonds, backed by our government, is a way that NEVER fails, it's always there when needed. Savings Bonds are a good place for this year's crop money. Buy now, rain or shine. See your banker or postmaster on the next trip to town.
